NEWSLETTER#04

IN THIS ISSUE

Dear Reader,

I am pleased to invite you to read the 4th Newsletter of the INDEED Project. In the current issue, you will find information on the Evidence-Based Evaluation Model developed by our consortium. This result will guide you through the key components, stages and steps that should be followed in the design and implementation process of evaluating initiatives in the area of P/CVE and De-radicalisation, but also in the areas of generally understood as crime prevention. In addition, you will find the details about INDEED Digital Repository of Studies on Risk and Protective Factors, developed by the Team, provides an overview of the scientific research on factors which may facilitate or prevent processes of radicalisation. In this issue, you can also find information about promotional campaign launched in social media, from which you will learn, among others: how INDEED Project defines key terms such as Evidence-Based Evaluation, Evidence-Based Practice or the Evidence-Based Initiative in the area of P/CVE and De-radicalisation.

I wish you fruitful reading!

WHAT'S NEW

INDEED delivered the Evidence-Based Evaluation Model for radicalisation prevention and mitigation

The INDEED D3.1 represents a significant milestone in the INDEED project, as it provides an in-depth description of the (co-design) process and the outcome of the development of the Evidence-Based Evaluation Model (EBEM) for PVE/CVE and De-radicalisation initiatives (also applicable to Crime prevention). The model is a result of a collaborative approach among project partners, members of the INDEED Advisory Board, various practitioners from national SMART Hubs, Radicalisation Awareness Network (RAN) members and international academic experts in evaluation. The model was designed to provide a basic idea on evaluation, and it serves as a resource for evaluation planners, with or without previous skills in evaluation. The model, in its turn, serves as a groundwork for the evaluation tool to be developed in T3.2.

The model, the tool along with 2 professional e-guidebooks will form the final evidence-based evaluation package, which will be soon available on the INDEED website under the Toolkit section.

INDEED developed a digital repository of risk and protective factors

DIGITAL REPOSITORY OF STUDIES ON RISK AND PROTECTIVE FACTORS

In its first year, INDEED developed a digital repository of studies on risk and protective factors which can be accessed here. The repository, which is the first of its kind, provides an overview of the research literature on factors which may facilitate (risk factors) or prevent (protective factors) processes of radicalization. The repository includes a total number of 181 primary studies, and will be updated regularly.

INDEED publishes D5.1 "Comprehensive Analysis Report on trainings, learning tools, gaps and needs for evaluation and initiatives' design"

This document aims at collecting and compiling information on existing training and learning tools in the PVE/CVE/DeRAD field, as well as identifying needs and gaps experienced by experts, practitioners, and policymakers in this regard. Its results will serve as a key basis and guidelines to the development of INDEED's training curricula and training support packages (i.e., T5.3 'Design of novel training curricula and Training Support Packages on Evaluation and Design, Planning and Implementation of PVE/CVE/De-radicalisation initiatives').

The campaign, that stems out from D1.2 submitted by WP1, is composed of six social media cards aiming to disseminate key concepts of INDEED.

They have been promoted on our social media channels during January and February every Monday for six weeks, hit the button below to collect them!

ABOUT TO HAPPEN

14 March 2023, Brussels

CERIS FCT workshop on Europol's new role in Horizon Europe

On 14 March 2023, INDEED is invited to the Community for European Research and Innovation for Security (CERIS) Fighting Crime and Terrorism (FCT) workshop on Europol's new role in Horizon Europe in Brussels.

The workshop, presented by DG HOME, aims at bringing together representatives of Europol and of ongoing EU-funded research projects related to the fight against crime and terrorism. The goal of this workshop is to present the new role of Europol in Horizon Europe, related to the Europol's amended Regulation, and to stimulate the discussion about possibilities of cooperation with EU security research projects in the light of this new role.

IN CASE YOU MISSED IT

29 November 2022, Brussels

CERIS FCT workshop: on “EU-funded projects on preventing radicalisation – Synergies and Insights”

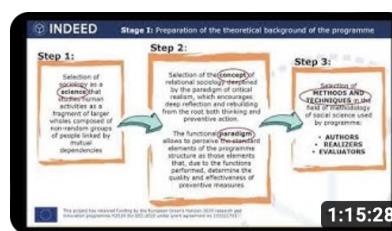

On 29 November 2022, Polska Platforma Bezpieczeństwa Wewnętrznego, Vrije Universiteit Brussel and the University of Helsinki, represented INDEED at the CERIS FCT workshop: on “EU-funded projects on preventing radicalisation – Synergies and Insights” in Brussels, Belgium. The workshop brought together practitioners, policy makers and researchers to discuss the lessons drawn from a number of projects related to radicalisation, as well as to ensure that the research carried out under these projects can be fully exploited by informing policy makers and other stakeholders, particularly on the evidence-based policy responses. The aim of this workshop was to facilitate the sharing of experiences and research findings in order to identify current achievements, possible synergies, and inspire each other while strengthening collaboration on European level.
